religious toleration is much discussed these days but where did the western notion of toleration come from in this thought provoking book gary remer traces arguments for religious toleration back to the renaissance demonstrating how humanist thinkers initiated an intellectual tradition that has persisted even to our present day although toleration has long been recognized as an important theme in renaissance humanist thinking many scholars have mistakenly portrayed the humanists as proto enlightenment rationalists and nascent liberals remer however offers the surprising conclusion that humanist thinking on toleration was actually founded on the classical tradition of rhetoric it was the rhetorician's commitment to decorum the ability to argue both sides of an issue and the search for an acceptable epistemological standard in probability and consensus that grounded humanist arguments for toleration remer also finds that the primary humanist model for a full fledged theory of toleration was the ciceronian rhetorical category of sermo conversation the historical scope of this book is wide ranging remer begins by focusing on the works of four humanists desiderius erasmus jacobus acontius william chillingworth and jean bodin then he considers the challenge posed to the humanist defense of toleration by thomas hobbes and pierre bayle finally he shows how humanist ideas have continued to influence arguments for toleration even after the passing of humanism from john locke to contemporary american discussions of freedom of speech we have only recently started to challenge the notion that serious inquiry can be free of rhetoric that it can rely exclusively on hard fact and cold logic in support of its claims increasingly scholars are shifting their attention from methods of proof to the heuristic methods of debate and discussion the art of rhetoric to examine how scholarly discourse is shaped by tropes and figures by the naming and framing of issues and by the need to adapt arguments to ends audiences and circumstances herbert w simons and the contributors to this important collection of essays provide impressive evidence that the new movement referred to as the rhetorical turn offers a rigorous way to look within and across the disciplines the rhetorical turn moves from biology to politics via excursions into the rhetorics of psychoanalysis decision science and conversational analysis topics explored include how rhetorical invention guides scientific invention how rhetoric assists political judgment and how it integrates varying approaches to meta theory concluding with four philosophical essays this volume of case studies demonstrates how the inventive and persuasive dimensions of scholarly discourse point the way to forms of argument appropriate to our postmodern age
