a book about travel around the mediterranean describing experiences history and geography the mediterranean sea has been a crucial site of cross cultural exchange since the beginning of human history this book is certain to become the definitive work on the mediterranean sea for generations studies of the pivotal historic place of the mediterranean have long been dominated by specialists of its northern shores that is by european historians the seven leading authors in this groundbreaking volume challenge views of mediterranean space as shaped by european trajectories and in doing so they challenge our comfortable notions drawing perspectives from the mediterranean s eastern and southern shores they ask anew what is the mediterranean what are its borders its defining characteristics what forces of nature politics culture or economics have made the mediterranean and how long have they or will they endure covering the sixteenth century to the twentieth this timely volume brings the early modern world into conversation with the modern world in new ways demonstrating that only recently can we differentiate the north and south into separate cultural and political zones the making of the modern mediterranean views from the south offers a blueprint for a new generation of readers to rethink the world we thought we knew a wonderfully concise and readable yet comprehensive history of the mediterranean sea the perfect companion for any visitor or indeed anyone compelled to stay at home the grand object of travelling is to see the shores of the mediterranean samuel johnson 1776 the mediterranean has always been a leading stage for world history it is also visited each year by tens of millions of tourists both local and international jeremy black provides an account in which the experience of travel is foremost travel for tourism for trade for war for migration for culture or as so often for a variety of reasons travellers have always had a variety of goals and situations from rulers to slaves merchants to pirates and black covers them all from phoenicians travelling for trade to the modern tourist sailing for pleasure and cruising in great comfort throughout the book the emphasis is on the sea on coastal regions and on port cities visited by cruise liners athens barcelona naples palermo but it also looks beyond notably to the other waters that flow into the mediterranean the black sea the atlantic the red sea and rivers from the ebro and rhone to the Nile much of western eurasia and northern africa played and continues to play a role directly or indirectly in the fate of the mediterranean at times that can make the history of the sea an account of conflict after conflict but it is necessary to understand these wars in order to grasp the changing boundaries of the mediterranean states societies and religions the buildings that have been left and the peoples cultures senses of identity and histories black explores the centrality of the mediterranean to the western experience of travel beginning in antiquity with the phoenicians minoans and greeks he shows how the roman empire united the sea and how it was later divided by christianity and islam he tells the story of the rise and fall of the maritime empires of pisa genoa and venice describes how galley warfare evolved and how the mediterranean fired the imagination of shakespeare among many artists from the renaissance and baroque to the seventeenth century beginnings of english tourism to the aegean sicily and other destinations black examines the culture of the mediterranean he shows how english naval power grew culminating in nelson s famous victory over the french in the battle of the Nile and the establishment of gibraltar minorca and malta as naval bases black explains the retreat of islam in north africa describes the age of steam navigation and looks at how and why the british occupied cyprus egypt and the ionian islands he looks at the impact of the suez canal as a new sea route to india and how the riviera became europe s playground he shows how the mediterranean has been central to two world wars the cold war and ongoing conflicts in the middle east with its focus always on the sea the book looks at the fate of port cities particularly alexandria salonika and naples this volume is an indispensable addition to the multidisciplinary coverage of the science of the mediterranean sea the editors have gathered leading authorities from the fields of marine biology ecology paleoclimatology chemical and physical oceanography zoology botany aquatic photosynthesis socioeconomics mariculture mediterranean history and science of humanity beginning with the birth of the mediterranean sea and its myths from coral to fish an introduction is given to its major inhabitants of plants and animals past and present the chapters illustrate how organisms interact as part of the structure and function of the sea s main ecosystems the rise of the mediterranean as the cradle of the western civilization leads to a discourse on the status of human interaction with the sea accelerating global climate change water warming ocean acidification and sea level rise and analyses of their effects on key organisms entire ecosystems and human socioeconomics are given forecasting and predictions are presented taking into account different future scenarios from the ipcc international panel on climate change the volume is richly illustrated in color with an extensive bibliography a valuable addition to the limited literature in the field offering up to date broad coverage merging science and humanities the focus of fernand braudel s great work is the mediterranean world in the second half of the sixteenth century but braudel ranges back in history to the world of odysseus and forward to our time moving out from the mediterranean area to the new world and other destinations of mediterranean traders braudel s scope embraces the natural world and material life economics demography politics and diplomacy a grand sweep of history by the late fernand braudel one of the twentieth century s most influential historians memory and the mediterranean chronicles the mediterranean s immeasurably rich past during the foundational period from prehistory to classical antiquity illuminating nothing less than the bedrock of our civilization and the very origins of western culture essential for historians yet written explicitly for the general reader this magnificent account of the ebb and flow of cultures shaped by the mediterranean takes us from the great sea s geologic beginnings through the ancient civilizations that flourished along its shores moving with ease from mesopotamia and egypt to the flowering of crete and the early aegean peoples and culminating in the prodigious achievements of ancient greece and rome braudel conveys in absorbing detail the geography and climate of the region over the course of millennia while brilliantly explaining the larger forces that gave rise to agriculture writing sea travel trade and ultimately the emergence of empires impressive in scope and gracefully written memory and the mediterranean is an endlessly enriching work of history by a legend in the field the mediterranean region contains a diverse and interesting climate ranging from areas with permanent glaciers to areas of subtropical semiarid regions the region is potentially sensitive to climate change and its progress has environmental social and economic implications within and beyond the region produced by the mediterranean climate variability and predictability research networking project this book reviews the evolution of the mediterranean climate over the past two millennia with projections further into the twenty first century as well as examining in detail various aspects of the mediterranean region s climate including evolution atmospheric variables and oceanic and land elements integrated with this the book also considers the social and economic problems or vulnerabilities associated with the region written and reviewed by multiple researchers to ensure a high level of information presented clearly mediterranean climate variables will be an invaluable source of information for geologists oceanographers and anyone interested in learning more about the mediterranean climate written by leading experts in the field presents clear compelling and concise evidence includes the latest thinking in mediterranean climate research in the rulers of the mediterranean richard harding davis crafts a vivid exploration of the intertwined histories of the mediterranean nations at the turn of the 20th century through his immersive narrative style davis combines journalistic precision with literary flair painting a rich tapestry that captures the political social and cultural dynamics of this historic sea the book resonates with themes of imperialism and nationalism providing a critical context for understanding the contemporary geopolitical intricacies that would shape future conflicts in the region his evocative descriptions and meticulous attention to detail transport readers to bustling ports ornate palaces and the vibrant street life of mediterranean cities inviting contemplation on their historical significance richard harding davis an acclaimed american journalist and author leveraged his extensive travels and firsthand observations to inform his writing his experiences in war zones coupled with a deep seated interest in the oscillating currents between civilizations inspired him to delve into the socio political fabric of the mediterranean davis s perspective as a contemporary witness to the unfolding drama of nations offers unique insight making this book not just an account of events but also a reflection on the human condition in times of strife i highly recommend the rulers of the mediterranean to readers interested in historical narratives as well as those seeking an engaging and informative guide to the mediterranean s complex past this book transcends mere reportage it invites readers to engage with the tangled legacies of european and north african relationships making it essential for anyone eager to deepen their understanding of this pivotal region in this enriched edition we have carefully created added value for your reading experience a succinct introduction situates the work s timeless appeal and themes the synopsis outlines the central plot highlighting key developments without spoiling critical twists a detailed historical context immerses you in the era s events and influences that shaped the writing a thorough analysis dissects symbols motifs and character arcs to unearth underlying meanings reflection questions prompt you to engage personally with the work s messages connecting them to modern life hand picked memorable quotes shine a spotlight on moments of literary brilliance interactive footnotes clarify unusual references historical allusions and archaic phrases for an effortless more informed read the mediterranean has always attracted the imagination of modern historians as the epicentre of great political entities such as the egyptians greeks romans arabs ottomans venetians and spanish however it seems that the sea itself was always on the margins of historical inquiry at least until the publication of the famous two volume work by f braudel in 1949 this collection of essays aims to offer a vertical history of war in the mediterranean sea from the early middle ages to the early modernity putting the emphasis on the changing face of several different aspects and contexts of war over time contributors are stephen bennett stathis birtachas cornel bontea wayne h bowen lilia campana raffaele d amato elina gugliuzzo nikolaos kanellopoulos savvas kyriakides tilemachos lounghis alan v murray chrysovalantis papadamou jacopo pessina philip rance georgios theotokis iason tzouriadis ian wilson and aysel yildiz an environmental history of the mountain areas of turkey greece italy spain and morocco this lively and dramatic book brings roaring to life the grand sweep of 5 000 years of history in the cradle of civilization a wonderfully illustrated account of the civilizations that rose and fell on the lands bordering the mediterranean the middle sea represents the culmination of a great historian s unparalleled art and scholarship john julius norwich provides brilliant portraits of the phoenicians the egyptians the greeks the romans the byzantines the arabs the french the venetians the popes and the pirates of the gulf above all he deftly traces the intermingling of ancient conflicts and modern sensibilities that shapes life today on the shores of the middle sea an award winning history of the mediterranean from prehistory to the classical world reissued with an extended new preface by the author for millennia the mediterranean has been one of the global cockpits of human endeavor world class interpretations exist of its classical and subsequent history but there has been remarkably little holistic exploration of how its societies culture and economies first came into being despite the fact that almost all the fundamental developments originated well before 500 bce the making of the middle sea offers a full interpretive exploration into the rise of the mediterranean world from its beginning before the emergence of our own species up to the threshold of classical times extensively illustrated and ranging across disciplines subject matter and chronology from early humans and the origins of farming and metallurgy to the rise of civilizations egyptian levantine hispanic minoan mycenaean phoenician etruscan early greek the book is a masterpiece of archaeological and historical writing now featuring a new preface exploring the most recent archaeological research on the mediterranean world winner of the wolfson prize for history in 2014 when thinking about the mediterranean fernand braudel s haunting words resound like an echo of the sea and its millenary history from prehistory until today the mediterranean has been setting witness and protagonist of mythical adventures of encounters with the other of battles and the rise and fall of cultures and empires of the destinies of humans braudel s appeal for a long duration the history of the mediterranean challenged traditional views that often present it as a sea fragmented and divided through periods this volume proposes a journey into the bright and dark sides of the ancient mediterranean through the kaleidoscopic gaze of artists who from the renaissance to the 21st century have been inspired by its myths and history the view of those who imagined and recreated the past of the sea has largely contributed to the shaping of modern cultures which are inexorably rooted and embedded in mediterranean traditions the contributions look at modern visual reinterpretations of ancient myths fiction and history and pay particular attention to the theme of sea travel and travellers which since homer s odyssey has become the epitome of the discovery of new worlds of cultural exchanges and a metaphor of personal developments and metamorphoses the mediterranean is an outstanding hot spot of biological diversity it is exceptional not only for this but also because of its long history of interactions between its human inhabitants and the other fauna and flora of the region the cradle of many civilizations the mediterranean region has been host to humans for thousands of years this book is the first to synthesise our current understanding of the ecology biology and geology of mediterranean animals birds and plants and their habitats the authors focus on the unique historical determinants and spatial patterns of mediterranean biodiversity in particular the dramatic impacts of long term human activities on the region s landscapes flora and fauna are considered this fascinating story will be of interest to researchers and students in ecology biology conservation and geography as well as to naturalists and ecotourists visiting this popular holiday region the majority of scholarly conceptions of the mediterranean focus on the sea s northern shores with its historical epicentres of spain france or italy this book seeks to demonstrate the importance of economic political and cultural networks emanating from the mediterranean s lesser studied southern shores the various chapters emphasize the activities that made connections between the southern shores sub saharan africa the lands along its northern shores and beyond to the united states in doing so the book avoids a eurocentric approach and details the importance of the players and regions of the southern hinterland in the analysis of the mediterranean space the cultural aspects of the north african countries be they music literature film commerce or political activism continue to transform the public spheres of the countries along the northern shores of the mediterranean and beyond to the whole of the european continent in its focus on the often overlooked north african shore the work is an innovative contribution to the historiography of the mediterranean region this book was originally published as a special issue of the journal of north african studies
